

Endodontic Access Prep & Obturate

Dr Patrick Caldwell,
Endodontist

New standards are emerging to provide a more holistic approach to endodontic therapy.

Greater importance is being placed on a process that cannot only enable successful elimination of infection within the root canal system, but one that is also considerate of the structural integrity of the tooth to provide the most favourable long-term outcome.

A component of this is the improvement in material science that has facilitated the manufacture of more flexible and strong instruments.

This endodontic seminar and hands-on workshop will give participants the opportunity to develop the skills to prepare and obturate more conservatively using the latest technology heat-treated files. The majority of the workshop will be spent preparing and obturating teeth. A component of online learning will be necessary prior to the hands-on workshop.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

At the end of the course, the participant will:

- ✓ Understand the limitations and advantages of implementing orifice directed access in your practice.
- ✓ Develop the ability to utilise new NiTi technology in conjunction with traditional hand file techniques to achieve specific canal-appropriate instrumentation with reduced risk of iatrogenic error.
- ✓ Understand the use of bioceramic sealers and warm lateral condensation techniques to fill canal preparations.

COURSE TOPICS:

- ✓ Failure of root filled teeth: Understand the various modes of failure of endodontic therapy and how to limit the influence of various factors.
- ✓ Endodontic Access: Plan and complete access in a systematic manner that provides improved vision, better precision and conservation of tooth structure.
- ✓ Glide Path Management: Learn how and when to utilise Glide Path Files to improve the predictability of preparation techniques.
- ✓ Canal Preparation: How to prepare canals in a predictable manner using a systematic approach.
- ✓ Obturation: Learn to size GP and control for length and various techniques for more complete obturation.
